Eisenhower to Address GOP Workers Tonight

Radio, TV Speech Will Highlight Party Precinct Day

DENVER (UP) — President Eisenhower put the finishing touches today on a "hard-hitting" speech he hopes will stir top precinct workers into turning in a party victory in the Nov. 2 congressional elections.

The President, surrounded by House and Senate leaders and campaign lieutenants, will speak at 9:30 p. m. EST (8:30 CST) today, highlighting the Republican party's "Precinct Day." His speech will be televised and broadcast nationally.

The chief executive will meet with the GOP House and Senate leaders in a luxurious, paneled suite of the Brown Palace Hotel here at 7:30 p. m. EST, then go to the Denver Municipal Auditorium for a joint appearance with Vice President Richard M. Nixon. After their speeches, the President, the vice president and their campaign lieutenants will return to the hotel for dinner and another strategy conference.

On 158 TV Stations

The President's speech tonight will be carried by 158 television stations of an augmented Columbia Broadcasting System and 534 radio stations of the National Broadcasting Company and the Mutual National Committee estimated that 2,150,000 party workers would be gathered by their TV sets and radios to hear the President's call to battle.

Murray Snyder, acting White House press secretary, said "this speech—delivered with the leaders of the Republican party and the Republican leaders of Congress on the platform — will symbolize the President's partnership idea in the administration of government."

GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Vice President Nixon expected the speech to be more "hard-hitting" than the chief executive's last labeled political speech in the Los Angeles Bowl. Nixon said, "This speech should give the campaign a real shot in the arm."

Stressed Leadership

Snyder said the President "has always stressed in meetings with his congressional leaders the importance of partnership in the development of legislative programs and the enactment of those programs."

Among the House and Senate leaders present today were Sen. William F. Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, and Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, the Senate GOP Policy Committee chairman who is up for re-election. House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., will be here, along with Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House GOP leader.

Also scheduled to be on hand were Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, the House whip; Leo C. Allen of Illinois, chairman of the House Rules Committee, and Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Conference.

Sentence Divorcee For Shooting Baron

SALISBURY, England (UP) — A British court today sentenced Mrs. Mary Mavis Wheeler, attractive 40-year-old divorcee, to six months in jail for "unlawfully and maliciously wounding" her playboy lover, Baron Vivian.

Mrs. Wheeler, who insisted during her trial that the pistol shot which ripped into Lord Vivian's abdomen was fired accidentally after an evening of drinking and cuddling in their rural love-nest, was convicted on two charges — "malicious wounding" and "illegal possession of arms."

Marian Anderson to Sing Leading Role For Metropolitan Opera

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Marian Anderson, considered by critics to be one of the great singers of the century, has signed a contract making her the first Negro to sing a leading role for the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Miss Anderson, a contralto, will appear at the Opera House early in January in the role of Ulrica in Verdi's Un Ballo in Maschera. The role is that of a scorceress and does not specifically call for a negress.

Centralia Union Leader Indicted on Extortion Charge

EAST ST. LOUIS (UP)—Jack Geilhausen, Centralia AFL union leader, has been named in a five-count labor racketeering indictment returned by the federal grand jury here.

The indictment was revealed late Thursday following Geilhausen's arrest by FBI agents in San Diego, Calif.

Geilhausen, business agent for Local 563 of the Steamfitters Union, was charged with extorting more than $12,000 from three pipeline contractors working on projects in the Centralia-Salem area during 1951 and 1952.

The indictment said that Geilhausen obtained the money by threats of strikes, violence, jurisdictional disputes and other labor difficulties.

The indictment was returned by the jury a week ago, but was ordered supressed until Geilhausen was arrested.

Bond was set at $10,000 by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham.

Warn Russian Diesel Planes May Fly Over U.S.

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The American Aviation magazine has warned that long-range, Diesel-engine Russian aircraft may be flying over the United States now to pick out possible future A-bomb targets.

The magazine published a story saying that the planes presumably are capable of flying over Alaska to San Francisco and may already have carried out reconnaissance over the United States.

The two types of planes the Russians are reported to have available for this purpose are the TU4, a Diesel-engine version of the American B29 World War II Superfort, and the MI13RD. The TU4 has a reported range of 8,000 miles and the MI13RD a range of almost 9,000 miles.

The planes are said to be the outgrowth of the Jumo223 and Jumo224 designed by the Germans during World War II. The story speculated that the Russians are turning to Diesel-power for their long range aircraft as the Germans did.

The magazine said the planes have been in production at Komsomolsk, Siberia, for more than 18 months. Russia, it said, now has five squadrons of 10 planes each out of a projected 10 squadrons.

The story said it would be possible for the planes to take off from the island of Sakhalin, north of Japan, pick up enough altitude to get into the eastbound jet streams where the strong wind currents would give the planes an additional 150 miles an hour of speed and save fuel in the long trip over the Pacific.

French Leave as Hanoi Prepares To Surrender

HANOI, Indochina (UP) — Columns of Communist soldiers carrying tommy guns moved into Hanoi's suburbs today in preparation for Sunday's surrender of this one-time jewel city of the French Far Eastern empire.

First of the Communist Viet Minh army to arrive were military police of the elite 308th Division.

They marched smartly down streets that suddenly sprouted the yellow-starred Red flag of the new Communist Indochinese state even though it was only 7 a. m.—a time when the city usually still is sleeping.

The Reds wore new khaki uniforms and steel helmets. Behind the military police came infantry and signal corps soldiers.

The last French units had pulled out only minutes before from the first suburbs occupied, Dong Anh and Hadong. No incidents were reported.

The local Viet Minh committee turned out to welcome the new arrivals and led bleary-eyed citizens in chanting:

"Long live President Ho Chi Minh. Long live the People's Army."

By 9 a. m., the local committee had gotten around to erecting arches of triumph made of woven bamboo and decorated with leaves and flowers.

That is how it will be Sunday in central Hanoi itself, when after 72 years the French Tricolor is hauled down for the last time under terms of the July 20 Geneva ceasefire.

The two suburbs occupied today are on the edge of the 15-kilometer (eight mile) zone surrounding Hanoi that the French will hold until Sunday.

Foes Map Plans To Block Dixon-Yates Contract

Democrats Seek To Keep Issue Alive For Congress Action

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democratic foes mapped plans today for a hard-hitting campaign to block a quick congressional go-ahead for the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract.

All signs point to a long and noisy battle when the House-Senate Atomic Energy committee launches hearings—tentatively next Wednesday — on the administration's bid for immediate action on the contract.

The Atomic Energy Commission wants the committee to waive a 30-day waiting period so the contract can be put into effect without delay. Without the waiver, the contract would have to lie over in the committee for a month while Congress is in session and this would hold things up until early next year.

The aim of Democratic opponents is to try to block the waiver so the whole issue can be kept alive until Congress returns and can debate it fully.

Two of the most outspoken critics of the contract who are members of the Joint Atomic Committee—Reps. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) and Chet Holifield (D-Calif.)—were reported planning to return to Washington for the hearings next week.

Kefauver Seeks to Testify

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) fired an opening salvo Thursday night as a Senate Anti-Monopoly subcommittee which has been investigating the contract recessed its hearings until Oct. 18. Kefauver wrote Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) asking that he be allowed to testify before the joint committee which Cole heads.

He also asked that Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement be called as a witness along with spokesmen for rural electric cooperatives in his state. Kefauver joined Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.) in criticizing the AEC for approving the contract after the Monopoly subcommittee twice requested a delay until its inquiry was completed.

In a speech prepared for delivery in Nashville, Tenn., Kefauver charged that "secrecy" surrounding the contract and the bid for the waiver are explained by "the fact that a new Congress—a Democratic Congress in my opinion—will be in Washington before long."

Elect Three to Red Cross Board

The Saline County chapter of the American Red Cross held its regular monthly meeting at Schnierle's cafe Wednesday.

Three new members were elected to the board: Ronald Darnell, who will serve on the Junior Red Cross committee; Mrs. B. E. Montgomery, who will continue serving on the Blood Program Recruitment committee, and Jack Metten of Eldorado, who was elected as Eldorado Blood Program chairman.

Auda Stone of Eldorado, who had been serving as Eldorado Blood Program chairman since the beginning of the program, was given a vote of thanks for his work. Mr. Stone will continue on the Blood Program committee assisting Mr. Metten.

Plans were completed for the sectional meeting on the blood program to be held at the American Legion home in Harrisburg on Oct. 25. This will be a meeting of the seven chapters in this section who participate in the Blood program. They are Lawrence, Clay, Saline, Wayne, White, Richland and Williamson.

Bruce Burnett, chapter chairman, expressed the appreciation of the Blood Program committee for the cooperation and help of the American Legion in making the building available for this meeting.

Supplemental financing of the blood program was discussed. Plans were made for publicity through newspapers, radio, TV, speakers and films to stimulate interest in the Blood program and help every resident realize what this program means to the Community and to clarify what an administrative fee charged by the hospital covers and that there is no charge for the blood.

The board gave a vote of thanks to Dr. Warren D. Tuttle for speaking to the high school students and to other groups in behalf of the Blood program.

Gov't Economists Expect Business To Remain at Present Levels

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government economists said today business probably will "bump along with ups and downs" in various fields but generally remain near the present levels for the next few months.

They said they consider present economic activities to be at "high levels."

The turn that business takes around the year's end, they said, may hinge on how well 1955 model autos sell. Sale of 1954 models has been holding up "surprisingly well," they said. And a heavy demand for the 1955 models might well be the spark needed to set off a general business upsurge.

Jobs Remain Stable

As examples of the prospective ups and downs of future economic conditions, business spending for new plants and equipment and federal expenditures are expected to decrease during the remainder of this year. But construction of new homes is expected to continue at the present record level.

The economists cited the latest reports on employment, inventories and freight carloadings to support their cautious prediction of continued economic stability.

The Commerce and Labor departments reported that the jobs remained stable last month for the third successive month. Both employment and unemployment showed small declines, largely the result of changes in the nation's labor force.

Inventories Go Down

The number of employed decreased by 132,000 from the first part of August to the first part of September, reaching 62,144,000. The number of jobless declined by 146,000 to 3,099,000. The percentage of unemployed decreased slightly to 4.8 per cent.

In September, 1953, employment totaled 62,306,000 and in September 1952, it was 62,260,000.

The change in the labor force last month resulted from about 1,000,000 teenage workers returning to school. But this was offset partially by housewives taking jobs, particularly in southern cotton fields.

The pileup of inventories continued to go down in August but at a slower pace. They totaled $77,221,000,000 at the end of August, down $3,446,000,000 from a year ago.

Nationalist China Asked to Avoid Drastic Moves

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The United States wants Nationalist China to avoid any drastic military moves that could spark a major war in the Far East, high administration officials said today.

They took the position, however, that the Nationalists have the right and duty to pursue "sensible military actions" to neutralize sizable Red forces on the China mainland that could invade Nationalist islands.

The State and Defense departments shied away from any official comment on widespread reports from Formosa that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces had quit bombing the Communist China mainland at the suggestion of the United States. But there were signs the United States may have dropped some broad hints to the Nationalists to take it easy.

May Involve Politics

The official silence may involve domestic politics as well as strategic considerations. There is no disposition at this time, in advance of the November elections, to bring up the politically hot Far Eastern issue which has found the two parties at odds since World War II.

Informed sources pointed out that a recent "Democratic Fact Book" charged that President Eisenhower had a secret agreement with Chiang which specified that "Chiang's troops must stay put on Formosa." The Democratic National Committee said this proved the President's Feb. 2, 1953, order for the U. S. 7th fleet to quit shielding Red China from Nationalist attacks "was a phony, designed mainly for domestic applause."

Must Keep U. S. Posted

This was a reference to an understanding between the United States and Nationalist China which has been in effect for about 15 months. It provides that the Nationalists inform this country in advance of any major action which might involve the 7th Fleet in a fracas with Red China.

So far as is known here, the arrangement has been working smoothly. Any friction or American suggestion to quit bombing the mainland would only have been made in the last few days. The United States is understood to have been informed in advance, for example, when the Nationalists struck back at the Red port of Amoy after the Reds had shelled nearby Quemoy last Sept. 3.

Vet Unknowingly Refuses Call From President

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A former Marine, who must stand erect for the rest of his life because of a war wound, unknowingly refused a telephone call from President Eisenhower.

The ex-Marine, Kenneth E. Porter, 38, a Phoenix, Ariz., businessman, said the incident occurred Wednesday night after he appeared on a nationwide television show which depicted his life story.

Porter said he received so many calls following NBC's "This is Your Life," that he was unable to take them. He asked NBC operators to record all numbers so he could return the calls later.

Among the calls refused was one from the President and Mrs. Eisenhower. The President's office telephoned again Thursday with Mr. Eisenhower's message, which was:

"Your's was the most inspirational story I have ever heard."

Porter could hardly believe it, exclaiming:

"Can you imagine—me, a yardbird from Arizona, getting a call from the President!"

The Peoria-Rockford Bus Co., which operates bus service between Carbondale and Evansville that runs through Harrisburg and Eldorado, has filed notice that it plans to discontinue part of its service.

The notice says that effective Oct. 20, the company will discontinue the Carbondale-to-Crossville service that leaves Carbondale at 5:15 p. m. daily, arriving in Harrisburg at 6:40 p. m. and Eldorado at 7 p. m. and the Crossville-to-Carbondale service arriving at Eldorado at 3:07 p. m. and Harrisburg at 3:27 p. m.

The notice says that this proposed change in service "will leave in effect two schedules each way daily between Crossville, Ill., and Eldorado, Ill., and three schedules each way daily between Eldorado, Ill., and Carbondale, Ill., and four schedules each way on Sunday between Marion, Ill., and Carbondale, Ill."

Demo Program For Weak People, Rep. Martin Says

MACOMB, Ill. (UP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin says election of a Democratic Congress this fall might mean "the obituary of a free nation."

Martin, speaking to a Republican rally Thursday night, said the Democrats' program is "for a weak people who have about become resigned to the adoption of a totalitarian form of government."

"We could expect new efforts to put over the proposals the Truman Democrats tried and failed to get in past Congresses," the Massachusetts Republican said.

These "frightening" proposals include the Brannan farm plan, compulsory health insurance, "socializing" natural resources, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and nationalizing industry, he said.

He warned that a Democratic victory would also bring "the chaos of an opposition party blocking the program of the President, twisting progress for political profit."

Expect Mrs. Luce to Resign As Ambassador

ROME (U.P.)—Authoritative diplomatic sources said today they expect Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce to resign within the next few months as United States ambassador to Italy.

With settlement of the Trieste dispute, Mrs. Luce has scored a major victory now in one of America's toughest overseas assignments, and the way appears clear for her to fullfill a long-standing desire to return to the United States.

Both Italian and Allied quarters give Mrs. Luce a huge share of the credit for the settlement this week of the nine-year-old dispute between Yugoslavia and Italy over Trieste.

From the moment of her arrival 18 months ago Mrs. Luce worked night and day, to pursuade the Italians to accept a compromise. Her diplomacy and tenacity paid off. The Italians not only accepted half of a territory they claimed as all theirs. They thanked Mrs. Luce for the half.

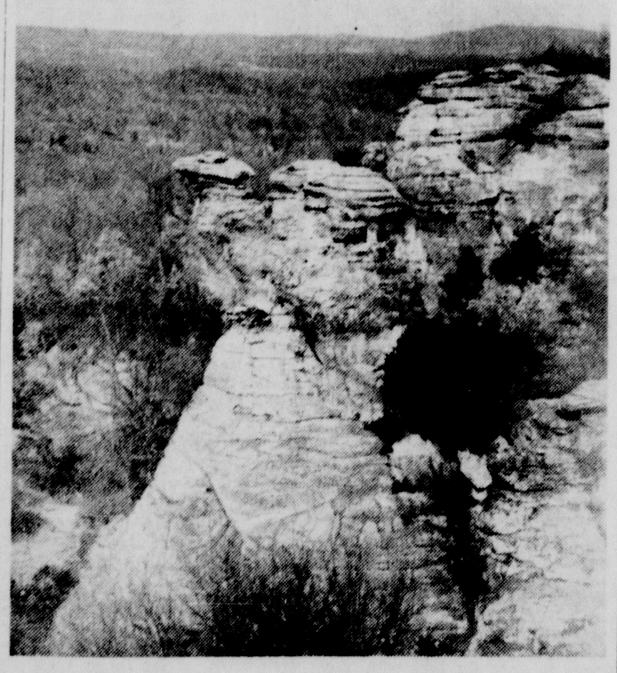

Mrs. Luce has spent all of her 18 months here denying that she planned to quit. She hung on despite sporadic illnesses, periods of sleeplessness and constantly interrupted attempts to vacation and rest. Finally the Communists formally demanded her recall, and there was no chance she could or would leave under such fire.

Today, however, the question among Mrs. Luce's friends is not whether she will resign—but when.

Despite what she might say publicly, Mrs. Luce is no longer denying in private that she will step down soon.

Storms Hit South and East Coast

Violent Weather Is Accompanied by Nine Plane Crashes

By United Press

Fourteen persons were dead or missing as flood waters poured over New Mexico farmlands today and a vicious nor'easter ripped the South Atlantic Seaboard.

Two other storms threatened havoc to the south. Hurricane Hazel, 100 miles wide and packing 100-mile-per hour winds, moved across the Caribbean Sea, and a savage storm from the Gulf of Mexico flooded persons from their homes in northeast Mexico.

The violent weather was accompanied by nine plane crashes that took 27 lives since Wednesday. Three crashes Thursday, killing nine persons, were all blamed on gusty or murky skies.

At Roswell, N. M., search parties struck out today along the muddy banks of the Rio Felix and Pecos rivers in hopes of finding some of the 10 missing alive.

East Coast Battered

Four bodies have already been taken from the flood waters and hopes that the other 10 survived were bleak.

The water was going down on the Rio Felix and Berrendo rivers early today, but floodwaters were still rising on the Pecos.

Across the nation on the East Coast, the backlash of a massive cold front stirred up by a nor'easter that battered its way along the North Carolina and Georgia shores and slammed at upper Florida early today.

Small craft warnings were out from Cape Hatteras to the Florida Strait, although the winds appeared to be dying down.

Aside from the Pecos Valley flood, the weather appeared to be taking its worst toll in plane crashes.

At Alexandria, La., a wind-buffeted helicopter crashed, killing five Air Force officers, and a two-engined plane, groping through the fog, crashed near Minco, Okla., burning all three occupants to death.

170 Forced From Homes

Another plane feeling its way through the fog crashed in the Magdalena mountains of New Mexico. The pilot was killed.

In Mexico the gulf storm forced 170 persons from their homes in the inland city of Monterrey. Highways were blocked and bridges were smashed by washouts and landslides and officials estimated the storm's total damage at 2½ million dollars.

The pounding rains sent the international Rio Grande out of its banks near its mouth and two other rivers were flooding in Mexico.

Rain was common over most of the upper Mississippi Valley and it was clear and cool in most of the East. Temperatures rose five to 20 degrees in the Great Plains and dropped eight to 20 degrees in the Southeast.

Awarded $15,000 For Death of Son

MARION, Ill. (U.P.)—Audie Gower, Johnston City, Thursday was awarded $15,000 by a Circuit Court jury for the death of his 4-year-old son.

The boy was struck and killed by a car driven by Mrs. Pauline Norris, Johnston City, and Gower sued for $20,000 damages.

When the court re-convenes Wednesday it will hear a $20,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Elma T. Wagley, Herrin, against the Central Illinois Public Service Co. for the death of her son, Carl, 13. The boy was electrocuted while trimming a tree for a neighbor.

Siamese Twins Die During Operation

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — A doctor said today Siamese twin girls who died during an operation to separate them were doomed because their hearts were "inseparably joined."

Connie and Bonnie Johnson, born 2½ months ago to Virgil and Joyce Johnson, a Pine Bluff, Ark., Negro couple, died Thursday. They were linked, face-to-face, by their breast bone, heart and liver.

The McCarthy Censure

Editorial — BY BRUCE BIOSSAT

Only a few times in its history has the United States Senate formally censured any of its members, but it now seems quite likely that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's name will be added to the list in the debate which begins Nov. 8.

A considerable number of Republican senators — perhaps 15 — have indicated they will probably join an overwhelming majority of Senate Democrats in voting to accept the censure findings recently handed down by the special Watkins committee. No doubt McCarthy's loyal followers in the Senate will resist this decision stoutly. And the senator himself has given every sign of making further combat on the floor.

But it is doubtful if these developments can have more than a delaying effect on the move for censure. The main reason would seem to be that the Watkins committee conducted the censure hearings with such eminent fairness and respect for the facts that the findings are not really vulnerable to attack.

The six members — Republicans Watkins of Utah, Case of South Dakota, Carlson of Kansas, and Democrats Johnson of Colorado, Stennis of Mississippi and Ervin of North Carolina are generally quiet, calm men held in high regard by their colleagues. They gave judicial detachment to these proceedings. They cannot be assailed for yielding to any violent anti-McCarthy passions.

If such an assault should now be tried by McCarthy and his chief backers, it would not merely be liable to fail but would almost surely enhance the prospects of censure. For the Senate has confidence in this committee's judgment.

That judgment was carefully employed in this case. While the group found McCarthy's behavior in respect to the solicitation and use of confidential government documents highly improper, it recognized that the case for censure here could easily be clouded by the confusions that surround the argument how best to fight communism.

It felt itself on firmer ground, however, in censuring the senator for his evident abuse of a World War II hero, General Zwicker. Members could not see that even if Zwicker were what McCarthy charged — an uncooperative witness who provoked him — that this justified intemperate abuse of a man who already had proved his soldierliness and patriotism in the heat of battle.

The committee decided, though, that the real heart of the case against McCarthy is concerned with his personal financial operations. These had been investigated with considerable energy and care by a previous Senate committee, which raised some very puzzling questions. McCarthy dealt with this prior inquiry by defying it in a manner the Watkins group believes was contemptuous.

He insulted the earlier committee, impugned its motives, and declined to discuss the subject under review — his finances. Then and many times since, the senator has sought to dismiss that investigation and any like it as a great "smear" perpetrated by Communists and others who didn't like his own purported efforts to dig subversives out of government. But that kind of talk is never an answer to such charges.

As a man in public office, a man who heads an appropriations subcommittee that decides how much money certain government agencies may have, McCarthy has a responsibility to demonstrate that he is financially trustworthy.

The only way to do that is to tell your colleagues, when you are challenged, how and what you have spent. These matters are not irrelevant, as some McCarthy defenders contend. They go to the core of a public officeholder's integrity and his right to have the people's confidence. The Watkins group has put its finger on this crucial issue.

McCarthy will not now help his cause if he tries to chop the finger off.

A Good Trick---if He Can Get Away With It!

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: U. N. Resettles Andean Indians On Lake Titicaca; U. S. Divers Will Recover Inca Gold From Titicaca Waters; Bolivian Indians Won't Let President Paz Leave Power.

EN ROUTE THROUGH SOUTH AMERICA. — Jottings from a South American notebook — In Washington you don't hear much about the United Nations except the rantings of Vishinsky or debates over Red China. But down here the UN is doing a great job for the Andean Indians of Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia . . . Enrique De Lozada, a long time in the U. S. A. with the UN and the Nelson Rockefeller Committee, is working with Bill Dillingham of Philadelphia and Swarthmore, Pa., to resettle several thousand Indians. Up on Lake Titicaca, highest lake in the world, they have established an Indian farm co-op. Since the UN didn't want to work on land expropriated by the government which might later be litigated under the new land reform, Lozada persuaded his friend, J. Sanfines, to give the Indians 1,000,000 acres of land. The Indians then got acquisitive, also took 400 head of Holsteins and 1,500 head of Herefords. They had been caring for them for years, they said, so the cattle should go with the land . . . But Dillingham finally persuaded the Indians to pay for the cattle on the installment plan and, believe it or not, they are now ahead with their payments . . . Captain Sanfines, the man who donated the million acres, is a former student of Iowa State university and West Point who later put the Bolivian army to work at irrigation, well-drilling and health projects instead of politics. However, he rowed with the new "National Revolutionary Movement" and is now in exile . . . What President Paz needs most is to get some of this energetic young blood back.

Diving in Titicaca — The man who knows most about Lake Titicaca is Victor Andrade, now Bolivian ambassador to Washington. He was exiled to an island by the previous conservative regime, found the water terribly cold but the only way to get a bath . . . Braving the cold of Lake Titicaca shortly will be William Mardorf, U. S. frogman who has signed a contract with the Bolivian government to dive for Inca gold thrown into the lake several hundred years ago. Mardorf has spotted one area where the Incas worshipped the sun gods by throwing gold in the water, and if the shores of the lake are not too steep he may recover a fortune. Most of the lake is extremely deep, however, and the gold may have slid down beyond recovery . . . Mardorf will not use a conventional diving suit. Oxygen can't be pumped down to him at such nigh altitudes. He will wear a Navy frog suit with three oxygen tanks strapped to his back. Under the suit he will wear plenty of heavy underwear, for his chief problem is icy water. He hopes to stay under two hours on each dive . . . Previous Bolivian governments would sign no contracts for the recovery of Inca gold for fear of Indian uprisings. The Paz government is so popular with the Indians it fears no revolts.

Ike Would Love This — Biggest trout in the world are in Lake Titicaca — 30 to 40 pounds. They came originally from the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries in Washington . . . The Peruvian and Bolivian governments, which share the lake, got together in 1939 and decided to stock the lake with trout; so Raul Diez De Medina, then with the Bolivian embassy and diplomatic correspondent for the Washington Star, sent the fingerlings down by boat. They died en route. Next shipment was sent by air and lived. For 10 years no one fished them and they grew to be the biggest trout in the world, also the most voracious. They are rapidly devouring all other fish in the lake . . . American missionaries are doing a fine job in South America. Near Montero, Bolivia, I met Fathers Foley and O'Brien of the Maryknoll Fathers. With friendly simplicity they are conducting schools and hospitals for the Indians. Also doing fine jobs, though I didn't get a chance to see them, are the Methodists and Seventh Day Adventists.

Jails Are Full — One great problem of President Paz is the number of political prisoners in Bolivian jails. U. S. Ambassador Eddie Sparks has remonstrated with Paz, urged him to release the prisoners. Replies the President: "You remember what happened to my friend President Villaroel? They hung him from a lamppost. It was very uncomfortable. I don't want that to happen to me." . . . Actually President Paz is in an almost impregnable political position —thanks to the Indians. As I traveled with him across Bolivia I saw delegation after delegation come to meet him, deluge him with flowers . . . When Senator Capehart of Indiana visited La Paz about a year ago, opposition politicians staged an incipient revolt hoping to discourage U. S. funds for Bolivia. Two leaders of the Paz cabinet were seized and kept in hotel rooms. Whereupon Indians came down from the plateau above La Paz, crowded the streets carrying rifles. The white population would have been massacred if anything had happened to one hair of President Paz's head; and they didn't disperse until Paz came out on his balcony and told them to go home . . . Paz now has his own private Indian army, thanks to the fact that nearly all Indians carry rifles. The regular Bolivian army is in the background, used chiefly for engineering and health cleanups. Previously the army was a political weapon, used to seat and unseat presidents.

Americans Build Friendship — Ambassador Sparks has done an outstanding job in South America, but will be replaced next week by Ambassador Jerry Drew. The high altitude necessitates frequent rotation of U. S. envoys . . . Unofficial envoys are the crews and personnel of Panagra. They penetrate to the farthest jungles of Bolivia, have won lots of friends for the U. S. A. . . . Some Panagra planes fly over such wild areas that Indians try to shoot them down with bows and arrows . . . Les Thayer, radio expert for the Macco Pan Pacific company, found it difficult to use telephone wires along the new American-built highway connecting the lowlands with the Andes. Reason: The Indians took the telehpone wires down to make bracelets . . . Macco Pan Pacific deserves credit not only for building the highway but improving U. S. relations. Max Winters, in charge of the project, fired any American who mistreated the natives. He evolved excellent esprit de corps among both Bolivians and Americans . . . A tip to President Paz: Keep an eye on Alvarez Plata, your second man in the ministry to rural affairs. He's not doing you any good, even though he does have two brothers high up in the government . . . Still remembered in La Paz: Roly-poly Senator Capehart of Indiana wearing a native Cochabamba stovepipe hat . . . also remembered: Lynn Stambaugh, who tours South America for the Ex-Im Bank. He's greeted with open arms by almost every airplane stewardess in Latin America. And Mrs. Stambaugh gets greeted, too.

Marine Corps To Recruit Lewis And Clark Platoon

Major John J. Jarvis, officer in charge of the Marine Corps recruiting activities for this area, announced today that the Marines will be enlisting a "Lewis and Clark" platoon during the month of October. The major stated that the platoon will be 75 strong. The Marine Corps policy at this time is to enlist only those young men who have met the new, high standards of the United States Marine Corps.

The platoon is named for George Rogers Clark and Meriweather Lewis, two of Americas early pioneers who are credited with finding a gate-way to the west.

The "Lewis and Clark" platoon will leave St. Louis on Oct. 20 for training at the Marine Corps recruit depot, at San Diego, Calif.

Interested young men may get more information about qualifying for enlistment in this platoon by contacting S-Sgt. Dick Mitchell or S-Sgt. Phil Hobbs at the Employment Office in Harrisburg next Thursday or by going to the Post Office building in Carbondale any day during this month.

Crump Excused From Testifying At FHA Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking committee today excused Edward H. Crump Jr. from testifying in its housing scandal investigation because of the serious illness of his father, E. H. Crump, Memphis, Tenn.

Chairman Homer Capehart (R-Ind.), commenting that the prominent Memphis political leader is "very seriously ill," said his son will not be called as scheduled today.

Capehart said the committee will seek information on the Shelby Construction Co. of New Orleans from other witnesses.

He commented that the younger Crump was "only the mortgage banker, anyway," in the New Orleans case. Capehart said Crump can be questioned later if necessary.

The committee resumed its investigation of the scandal-ridden Federal Housing Administration program with new testimony on "windfall" profits obtained by builders.

In the first case today, two Baltimore builders testified that construction companies which they owned with their wives got some $1,115,000 in such windfalls where FHA-guaranteed mortgages actually exceeded construction costs on five housing projects. The projects were identified as Drum Castle Apartments, Park Raven Apartments, Seaton Heights, Cross Country Apartments, and Harford Manor.

Capehart said he hoped the committee could end its public hearings, but announced that any witnesses who feel they have been "injured" by the committee's disclosures will have a chance to appear, Capehart announced.

That applies to Rep. Prince H. Preston Jr. (D-Ga.) who charged that Capehart was indulging in "character assassination" by investigating a Savannah, Ga., housing project in which Preston had an interest.

Capehart, angry at Preston's charges, took the witness chair Thursday before his own committee to reply to Preston.

Capehart swore under oath he never knew that Prestion was involved with the Nelson Apartments project, which he said the committee investigated as just another "windfall" operation. He said the FHA reported that the project had a $250,000 "windfall."

College Expels Five Involved in Drinking Contest

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—Knox College today expelled five students involved in an inter-fraternity beer-drinking contest that led to an auto accident in which two students died.

The college public relations office issued a 40-word statement announcing the action after a meeting of the college disciplinary committee, composed of both faculty and student members.

Two students who took part in the six-hour bout perished in the auto wreck as they and two other members of the Beta Theta Pi group were driving back to town. The other two were injured.

John Zourek, 19, Cicero, escaped with only minor injuries. William Anzalone, 22, Chicago, was burned critically and remains in St. Mary's hospital.

The college declined to give the names of the five who were expelled.

The four Phi Delta Thetas have never been identified in the investigation of the contest and accident.

Mendes-France Almost Certain Favorable Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France appeared today to have worn down bitter last-ditch opposition to the London agreements for German rearmament aid to be assured of a majority when a test vote is taken.

The premier, in today's debate of German rearmament and European defense plans, was fighting primarily for a free hand to continue his negotiations with his Western defense partners.

Authoritative sources said there no longer appears to be a danger of defeat for the plan.

The main issue now confroting Mendes-France, these sources said, is to prevent his hands being tied by so many restrictions on future negotiations that the allies would refuse to accept further French proposals.

Mendes-France knows that if French terms are placed too high in the negotiations that precede formal ratification next month, the West will reject them.

A vote on one of six motions to end the debate is expected sometime tonight.

Informed sources in Bonn said that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer probably will wait for France to ratify the London agreements before he seeks formal approval by his government.

Action of other governments — such as Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—probably will also depend on what France does. The French Assembly killed the European Defense Community, the forerunner of the present agreement, after most other Western European countries had ratified it.

Adenauer was given an informal go-ahead from the lower house of Parliament in Bonn Thursday night when a show of hands vote on a resolution supporting the chancellor wound up an 11-hour debate on the London pacts.

Big Ridge Baptist Faithful Followers Class Meets

The October meeting of the Faithful Followers class of the Big Ridge Baptist church was held at the home of Mrs. Jane Fox.

The devotion was given by the president, Mrs. E. Jean Fox, and prayer by Mrs. Margaret Wise.

Roll call was answered with a verse concerning faith by the following members: Mrs. Delta Ray Watkins, Mrs. Eva Mugge, Mrs. Margaret Wise, Mrs. Genevieve Alvey, Mrs. Theda Miller, Mrs. Jean Fox, Mrs. Ruth Mugge, Mrs. Neva Mears, Mrs. Erma Jean Alvey, Mrs. Leona Kaid, Mrs. Pauletta Humphrey and Mrs. June Fox, the hostess.

Following the business meeting mystery pals were revealed and gifts received by all.

Battle Sites Home For Many in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quite by chance, many Americans live where some of the country's hardest battles were fought.

Boston, New York, and Philadelphia sites associated with the Revolution, and French and Indian War battlefields along the Monongahela River outside Pittsburgh are among those involved.

Some Americans with a bent for historic lore settle by design near historic sites. For example, President and Mrs. Eisenhower bought a farm near Gettysburg, Pa., where the chief executive likes to recount the fierce struggle there of the Union and Confederate armies during the Civil War.

New apartment buildings now stand on a Civil War battlefield near Fredericksburg, Va., and the battlefield at Winchester, Va., is now peaceful apple-growing country.

But at the time of the Civil War, Wilmer McLean, of Manassas, Va., tried to get away from a battlefield. It was his farm that was the scene of the first and second battles of Bull Run. He moved deep into Virginia to get away from the fighting. He settled at Appomattox Court House, and once more the Union and Confederate armies followed him, this time for the surrender of Lee to Grant.

Moral: Let That Fly Roam As It Pleases

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—The next time George Eltgroth decides to go after a fly roaming his bedroom, he'll think twice before using a towel as a weapon.

The 40-year-old Syracuse man bagged his prey with a swipe of the towel, but he also shattered a light bulb and sent his wife to a hospital.

One of the fragments of the smashed bulb pierced Mrs. Eltgroth's thigh and the wound required stitches.

Authority Says Gov't Secrecy is National Threat

Government officials are conducting more and more of the public's business behind closed doors, says a man who knows the facts as well as anyone in America.

This "government in secret" is a serious threat to liberties on the national, state and local levels, he says.

Speaking is J. R. Wiggins, chairman of the freedom of information committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Wiggins is managing editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald.

The ASNE and other newspaper groups have been struggling for a number of years against growing governmental secrecy.

Nevertheless "a large and increasing percentage of the legislative transactions of this country are taking place behind closed doors," Wiggins says. The public's right to know is threatened by:

"(a) Frequent arbitrary and capricious denial of that right by local government bodies.

"(b) The secret transactions of state legislative committees.

"(c) The secret deliberations of congressional committees."

Woodrow Wilson foresaw the coming dangers of government secrecy 40 years ago, when he pointed out that laws are "framed, digested and concluded in committee rooms," rather than in the full legislatures.

And Vice President John Nance Garner went further: "There ought not to be any executive sessions of any congressional committees . . . it is all public business."

Agitation led Congress to require all committees to meet in the open except under special circumstances.

"But the law has been more honored in the breach than in the observance," Wiggins says. "In the first session of the 83rd Congress, 44 per cent of all committee and subcommittee meetings were secret, closed meetings. The percentage seems to be increasing."

The situation also appears to be deteriorating on the state level, he points out. Last year one state legislature voted to hold some sessions of its appropriations committee in secret. For 25 years, it had been required by law to meet in the open.

Government secrecy is no new problem. It was first invoked in the days of kings, when lawmakers wanted to protect themselves from the monarch's reprisals, Wiggins says.

Then it was continued to protect lawmakers against "the sometimes even more terrible vengeance of their constituents." For as Lord Acton observed, "Public opinion could not prevail while the debates were secret."

Why should government bodies meet in the open? Wiggins lists several reasons:

It is the public business that is being transacted.

The grant of power to legislatures is temporary, and the public needs to know how that power is used.

Legislation in public means better legislation, because members of the public may supply information helpful in making the laws.

Secrecy multiplies the danger of outright wrongdoing.

Public proceedings protect the honest lawmaker against false accusations.

And finally, public transaction of public business keeps people interested in the problems of government, and familiar with these problems. By creating greater public understanding of government problems, it brings greater cooperation and patience under necessary burdens.

"Government, historically, has frequently resisted the people's right to know," Wiggins says. "The most arbitrary governments have permitted the people to know the least."

American Motors President Dies

DETROIT (AP)—George W. Mason, president of American Motors Corp., died today at Harper hospital after a brief illness. He was 63.

Mason, who earlier this year forged Hudson Motor Car Co. and Nash-Kelvinator Corp. into the new American Motors Corp., was a leading figure in the automobile industry. He started out with the Dodge brothers in 1913.

OSLO, Norway (AP)— The Nobel prize committee said today that it will not award its coveted peace prize this year.

The Hallmark of Circulation Integrity

AUDITED PAID CIRCULATION ABC

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is this A.B.C. emblem a symbol of FACTS about the circulations of newspapers and periodicals. It is the emblem of membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations* and is assurance to advertisers that the circulations of member publications are measured, audited and reported in accordance with the rigid standards that have been mutually approved and adopted by advertisers and publishers. Here's why our membership in the A.B.C. is important to our advertisers and ourselves: At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: how much circulation we have; where it goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that advertisers need as a sound basis for their advertising investments. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request.

Stored Grain No Tax Loss, ASC Group Told

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — An agriculture official said today the government has more than 200 million dollars worth of farm commodities stored in Illinois.

Glen C. Fisher, program specialist for the agricultural stabilization and conservation committees, gave the figure at the opening of a state-wide ASC conference.

Fisher said if all the grain stored in Illinois were put in freight cars, the train would stretch from Cairo to Rockford.

Many people are under the wrong impression that these stored commodities are a loss to the taxpayer, he said. Fisher said that's in error because all eventually will move into consumer channels.

Describing the work of the ASC on the county level, Fisher said in many Illinois grain - producing counties, ASC committees loans more money than any banker.

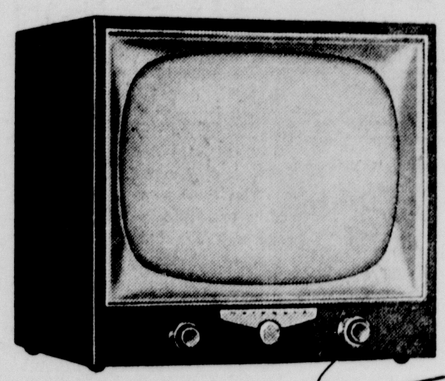

The agricultural stabilization and conservation committees help administer federal farm price support and production adjustment programs, and the farm conservation program.

E. C. Secor, chairman of the state ASC group, said 127 of the ASC committeemen who took office Oct. 1 are new, and the conference would help them get started on the right foot.

Three committeemen and an office manager serve in each county in Illinois under the ASC program.

Champaign Man Is Indicted for False FHA Loans

DANVILLE, Ill. (CP)—A witness in the Senate housing investigation was under indictment today on charges of making false statements to get federal loans for home improvements.

A federal grand jury Thursday indicted Maurice Bauman, 30, Champaign, for statements he allegedly made to get loans of $10,000 to $25,000, which were converted to other purposes.

The jury also charged Bauman with getting signatures of three Champaign men on FHA applications so he could get the loans.

Bauman testified before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee three weeks ago about getting "straw men" to apply for home improvement loans, which bore low interest rates.

He said he would pay them small sums to apply for the loans, and put the money from the loans to his own use or to buy television sets, automobiles or furniture.

Three other men were indicted by the grand jury Thursday. Arthur F. Bartell, Rantoul, was charged on two counts of improper use of FHA loans by using his name and that of another Rantoul man to get loans through the same mortgage company.

Bauman, Paul A. Rexroat of Rantoul and a third man was named in another indictment charging conspiracy to violate FHA rules. The third man was not identified pending his arrest.

Find Body of Chicago Fire Fighter

CHICAGO (AP) — Firemen today found the body of Paul H. Conners, Chicago's sixth-ranking fire-fighting official, who was buried beneath tons of rubble when the floor of a burning restaurant collapsed under him.

The discovery ended a night long search through piles of wreckage.

Conners, 59, who held the rank of second deputy chief fire marshal, was leading four men into the smoke-filled Streamdine restaurant late last night when an explosion shook the building.

The floor gave way, flinging the five fire fighters into the basement 20 feet below along with tons of rubble. Four of the firemen escaped with burns and injuries, but they could not save Conners.

Union Boss, Four Others Indicted

CHICAGO (AP) — Joseph (Joey) Glimco, an alleged link between labor unions and the underworld, says federal attorneys who obtained an indictment against him Thursday "may be making a guinea pig of me."

Glimco, diminutive boss of two union locals, and four other men were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of extorting more than $150,000 from poultry and egg merchants.

Glimco surrendered immediately after the indictment and said "This is all a mystery to me."

"I'm not in the poultry unions," he said. "Maybe they're making a guinea pig out of me."

He was released on $7,000 bond.

The indictments charged Glimco and the four other men with "wrongful use of threats, fear, violence, oppressive action, labor disputes, work stoppages and conjuring up strikes."

U. S. Atty. Robert Tieken said, "We are dealing with the hoodlum element which operates in the twilight zone of both labor and management."

Glimco is a director of Local 650 of the Chicago Poultry Handlers' Union and is a trustee of Local 777 in the cab drivers' branch of the AFL Teamsters Union.

Thursday's indictments also named three business agents of the poultry union, Max Podolsky, Dan Considine, and Martin O'Brien, and the president of the Chicago Poultry Board, Philip Shiffman.

Nearly 620,000 acres of land in eight southern Illinois counties — Pope, Hardin, Johnson, Alexander, Union, Massac, Monroe, and Saline should be planted to trees to prevent further erosion. (SIU).

Wife Wins Leniency For Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A wife won leniency for her 33-year-old husband after he pleaded guilty to stabbing her with a pocket knife when she refused to stop watching a television show to fix his dinner.

Superior Judge Ralph K. Pierson Thursday granted Lawrence G. Howerton freedom on his own recognizance, pending sentencing Dec. 3 on his guilty plea to an assault with a deadly weapon charge.

Howerton was released after his wife, Mrs. Marie Howerton, 41, testified she could not raise the $5,000 bail. She said she still loved her husband and did not wish to testify against him.

Injuns' Rout Stresses Sad Plight of American Loop

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Casey Stengel demands a recount on the American League race.

The Yankee manager suspects that the Indians stuffed the ballot box.

Frank Lane of the White Sox says the rest of the AL should sue the Cleveland club.

The rout of the Injuns stresses the frightening condition of the American League.

The Tribe established a new major league record for total victories, 111, by mopping up the have-nots. The only two other respectable outfits in the circuit—the Yanks and White Sox—broke even with the Indians.

The AL's immediate future hardly is bright. The Indians definitely are in dire need of repair. The Yanks have to be rebuilt. Paul Richards leaving Chicago for Baltimore is something in the way of evidence that the Texas Tactician was convinced that he had taken the Pale Hose as far as he could. The Red Sox' youth movement was stymied.

The Tigers have prospects, but not enough. The Senators are more likely to stand still or get worse as long as Clark Griffith is permitted to operate an old-fashioned country store. The Orioles were the Browns under another name in Baltimore, where this early those running the works are reliably reported to be in financial difficulties, what with a sizeable note to be met. The Athletics are poor relation wards of the wheel.

AS A FEW OF US pointed out, against the Giants the Indians were overmatched at bat, in the field and on the bases.

We recalled that the Polo Grounders won the big ones, so why not the World Series?

We seriously doubted that the big Cleveland pitchers would overpower the better-balanced New York Nationals.

You only had to look at the record. The last-place Pirates finished ahead of the last three AL outfits, 13 in front of the Orioles, 16 on top of the A's. The Cubs, seventh in the National, were a dozen lengths better than the sixth-place Nats. The Phils, Reds and Cards, fourth, fifth and sixth in the NL, were from 18 to 20 games better than the Bosox, Tigers and Nats, who finished in those positions in the AL.

So many were so completely oversold on the Cleveland pitching. It was mighty formidable, but those blindly following the Tribe overlooked the fact that the Giants had some pretty fair pitching of their own.

THOSE EXTRAORDINARY Cleveland earned-run averages were compiled in a league with just one 100-proof thumper, Ted Williams, and he got into no more than 117 games. The Giant pitchers tackled a flock of thoroughly-established fence-busters — Duke Snider, the great Stanley Musial, Ted Kluszewski, Jackie Robinson, Joe Adcock, Russ Hodges, Gus Bell, Eddie Mathews and Hank Sauer, among them.

This year's World Series did more to refute the ancient theory that pitching is from 75 to 90 per cent of baseball than anything that has come along since Connie Mack coined the line.

As Dizzy Dean said, you've got to have guys who can get them guys out.

With a fantastically porus major league infield, the lead-footed Indians were incapable of matching a club with an unusual amount of over-all speed.

Having had it so soft all the way along the way, the Indians were quite helpless against highly-geared operatives hitting and running, pulling the squeeze and executing perfectly all of the plays that go with a smart club winning a pennant in genuine competition.

Pfc. Bill Zimmer Plays Guard on Fort Carson Team

Army Pfc. Bill Zimmer, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Zimmer of 1308 South Webster street, Harrisburg, has been holding down one of the first string guard positions for the Mountaineers of Fort Carson, Colo., since their season opened Sept. 18 at Great Lakes where the Carson team suffered its only loss, 14-7.

Pfc. Zimmer, a 6 foot 1 inch 225 pounder, was graduated from Harrisburg Township high school in 1949. He earned a degree in physical education at Bradley university in 1953. While at Peoria Pfc. Zimmer earned four grid letters and was nominated to the All-Missouri Valley team in 1951. He also played with Fort Riley, Kan. during the 1953 season.

While at Bradley Pfc. Zimmer was initiated into the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

The Mountaineers have won two high score victories, one from Fort Bliss, Texas, 32-0, and the other from Amarillo, Texas, Air Force base, 84-0.

Tomorrow the Carson team will play at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer and daughter, Marjory, a freshman student at SIU, will see the game and visit with their son and brother while there.

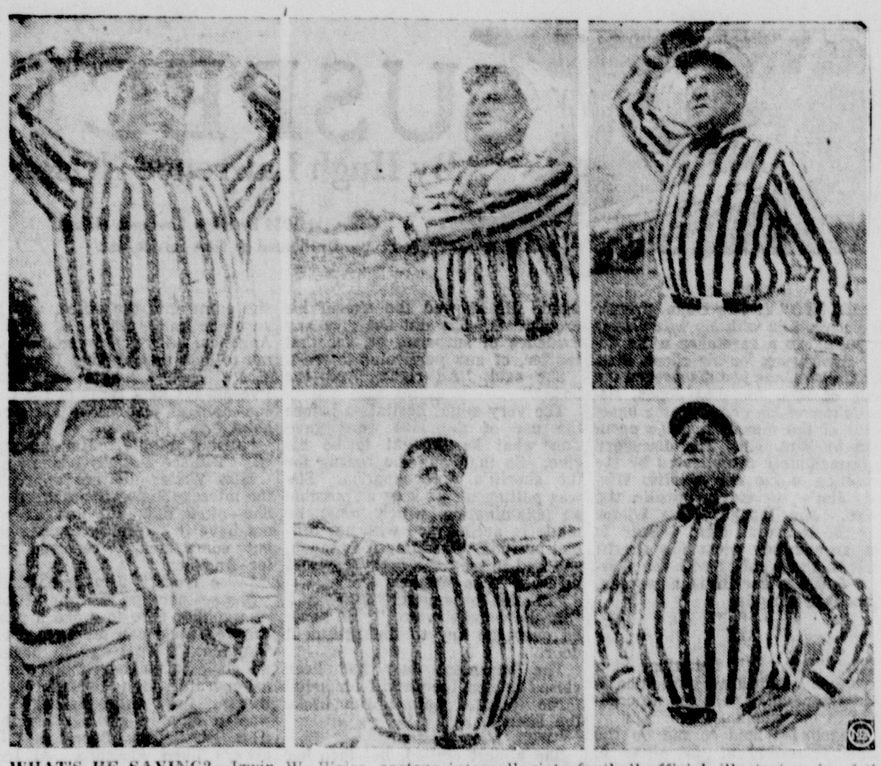

School Forfeits Game Because Of Polio Outbreak

ARTHUR, Ill. (AP) — Arthur High School forfeited its game with Arcola Thursday night because of a polio outbreak.

R. R. Wilson of Arthur said the game was canceled because of the number of polio cases here, now unofficially at 12.

The action was taken even though state health officers said they felt it wasn't absolutely necessary.

Southern Cal is Favored Over Texas Christian; Rate Oklahoma and Texas Even

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten Southern California is a solid 13-point favorite over Texas Christian, the team that almost upset national leader Oklahoma, in the feature of tonight's arc-light program that starts off a big weekend of college football.

Miami of Florida, also unbeaten, is the pick by a whopping 20 points over winless Holy Cross in another intersectional battle tonight, while other top games include Boston University-Fordham, and Denver-Montana.

Virtually all the big-name teams will swing into action Saturday when Oklahoma and Texas are rated even-money and Purdue, conqueror of Notre Dame, is a 7-point favorite over Duke in two of the best games and Wisconsin is a 13-point choice over Rice in the nationally televised intersectional game.

Rose Bowl Possibility

Southern California, one of the three unbeaten teams left on the Pacific Coast, rides into tonight's fray with three wins in three starts and a growing reputation as a Rose Bowl possibility.

Texas Christian, on the other hand, will come under the lights at the Los Angeles Coliseum with a record of only one win against two defeats. But folks remembering that the Horned Frogs had mighty Oklahoma beaten until Buddy Leake's 50-yard punt return set up an Oklahoma touchdown with only five minutes remaining must admit the possibility of a big upset.

Miami of Florida opened the season with a 51-13 rout and then proved its class with a 19-13 upset of Baylor. Holy Cross, however, lost to Dartmouth, 27-16, on a last-second pass and then went down before Colgate, 18-0.

Oklahoma, which lost star quarterback Gene Calame in the Texas Christian game with a broken shoulder, appears for the first time without him in the big clash with Texas and thus the game is rated a toss-up. Texas has lost only to Notre Dame 21-0 in three games.

Purdue, which upset Notre Dame last week 27-14 to vault into national prominence, will be called on to prove its right to high ranking again by a tough Duke squad that buried Pennsylvania 52-0 and nipped Tennessee, 7-6. Duke's problem, of course, will be how to stop Lennie Dawson, the soph phenom who has tossed eight touchdown passes in two games.

Wisconsin, fresh from a 6-0 upset of Michigan State, is unbeaten in two games and so is Rice. This one could be decided by the personal duel between all-America candidates Alan Ameche of Wisconsin and Dickie Moegle of Rice.

Other Choices

Otherwise, here is how the Saturday program is shaping up:

Intersectionals: Stanford and Navy, both unbeaten, are rated toss-ups in their first meeting in history; Southern Methodist has walloped Missouri five straight years but the odds-men call the once-beaten clubs even-stephen; Alabama a heavy choice over a Tulsa team that is 0-3 and has given up 102 points; Young Coach Terry Brennan is a 20-point pick to bring Notre Dame back from the Purdue disappointment to beat Pittsburgh.

Big Ten: Ohio State and Iowa, each 1-0 in the league, will try to jump ahead by beating Illinois and Michigan respectively, while Michigan State (0-2) faces Indiana (0-1) without ace back Leroy Bolden, and Minnesota meets Northwestern in the first league game for each.

Pacific Coast Conference: Washington (1-0) could jump ahead by defeating UCLA, but the Huskies are 20-point underdogs; California opens league seasons as 13-point choice over Oregon.

Atlantic Coast: Defending champion Maryland, upset by UCLA last week, 20-point pick to bounce back in league opener against Wake Forest.

Southern: Citadel - Richmond is only game.

Southeastern: Once-beaten Sugar Bowl champ Georgia Tech heavy favorite over winless Louisiana State while Auburn is a narrow 7-point pick over Kentucky and Mississippi State 13-point choice over Tulane.

Ivy: Princeton (1-0) a 7-point pick in traditional tussle with Penn while Yale (also 1-0) is picked by 13 over Columbia and Cornell by 19 over Harvard.

Big Seven: Nebraska ((1-0) a 6-point pick to jump ahead of loop by beating Kansas State; Iowa State favored by one over winless Kansas.

Missouri Valley: Oklahoma A and M 7 over Wichita in only game.

Skyline: Wyoming and Colorado A and M each 1-0 meet with winner jumping ahead of league; Brigham Young faces Utah.

Southwest: Arkansas (1-0 after win over Texas Christian) is only even money against Baylor.

Others: Army is a 21-point choice over Dartmouth; Penn State a heavy choice over Virginia; Mississippi a 19-point pick over Vanderbilt.

Giants, Indians Slice Up Record Series Melon

Winning Players to Get $11,147 Each; Losers $6,712

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians sliced up the biggest World Series melon in history today with a full share of $11,147.90 for the winners and $6,712.50 for the losers.

Commissioner Ford Frick revealed that the total players' pool for the 1954 series amounted to $881,763.72, including $83,000 from the pregame television shows. The Giants and Indians split up 70 per cent of this sum on a 60-40 basis while the remainder was divided among the other first division teams in each league.

This year's winning and losing share surpassed the previous record set last year when the New York Yankees received $8,230.63 each and the Brooklyn Dodgers got $6,178.42.

The Giants voted 30 full shares, three half shares, two one-third shares and voted 11 money gifts to players who were with the team only a short time. The Indians voted 34 full shares, one half share, four one-third shares and nine money gifts.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who trailed the Giants to the wire, received full shares of $2,103.43 while the third-place Milwaukee Braves received full shares of $1,224.68 and the four-place Philadelphia Phillies $648.36.

The Yankees, second to the Indians in the American league race got full shares of $1,784.79, with the third-place Chicago White Sox getting $1,224.68 and the fourth-place Boston Red Sox $595.79.

LaSalle Again Top-Seeded for Holiday Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — NCAA champion La Salle, once again led by all-American Tom Gola, today was top-seeded for the Holiday Festival basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden during Christmas week.

Ranked right behind the Explorers from Philadelphia were defending champion Duquesne, Dayton, and last year's runner-up, Niagara.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference, which takes over promotion of the eight-team tourney this season, announced the seedings and also disclosed the schedule for the first-round of games, as follows:

Monday, Dec. 27 — afternoon: La Salle vs. Syracuse, Niagara vs. UCLA; night: Duquesne vs. Villanova, Dayton vs. St. John's of Brooklyn. The first-round losers will meet in an afternoon doubleheader, Dec. 29; the same night, the first-round winners will meet in a semifinal. A triple-header on Dec. 31 will match the two surviving teams in the losers' bracket, the two losing semifinalists, and then the two winning semifinalists in the feature game.

Cubs, Pirates, Braves are Interested In Deal if Musial Up for Sale or Trade

By United Press

The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates joined the Milwaukee Braves as "interested parties" today if Stan Musial, the National league's six-time batting champion, is up for trade or sale.

General Manager Dick Meyer of the St. Louis Cardinals revealed Thursday that he would consider including Musial in a deal — although he warned the "offer would have to be overpowering." Meyer also disclosed that Musial's name "was mentioned" in recent trade talks with the Braves.

The news that the 33-year old slugger might be obtained brought immediate expressions of interest from Wid Mathews, director of player personnel for the Cubs, and Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates.

"If Musial is for sale, the Chicago National league ball club is interested," Mathews said. 'I would consider either a cash or deal settlement."

"I would be surprised if any manager in the league would not be interested in Musial," Rickey said. "I don't want to comment further, however, until I hear from Meyer personally that Musial can be had."

Charles (Chub) Feeney, vice president of the world champion New York Giants, said he did not "want to comment on players on other clubs," and Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, followed suit.

"I really couldn't discuss that," O'Malley said. "However, why not ask Charley Dressen — he should have something to say."

Dressen, former manager of the Dodgers who succeeded Bucky Harris as manager of the Washington Senators, expressed interest Tuesday in acquiring Jackie Robinson from Brooklyn. Jolly Cholly's remarks went over in the Brooklyn front office like one of Joe Miller's stale jokes.

Musial's name was tossed into the trade mart when the Braves approached the Cardinals in search of a left-handed hitting outfielder. It was learned that the Cardinals first mentioned rookie outfielder Wally Moon only to have General Manager John Quinn of the Braves counter with a "feeler" for Musial. According to Meyer, the talks for Musial never got down to "concrete offers," however.

Musial, who hit .330 and drove in 126 runs last season, had no comment.

Even Musial, Schoendienst Figure In Trade Talks

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Even six-time batting champion Stan Musial has figured in the St. Louis Cardinals' current trade talks, General Manager Dick Meyer said today.

"No player on the team is untouchable," Meyer said, "and that includes Musial and Red Schoendienst."

Meyer hastened to add, however, that any offer for "The Man" would have to be "overpowering" before the Cards would accept it.

He conceded that Musial had been "mentioned" during the Cards' recent talks with the Milwaukee Braves, from whom St. Louis attempted to obtain one of a trio of top pitchers — Warren Spahn, Gene Conley or Lew Burdette.

"He was not seriously considered however," Meyer said. "His name came up only because the Braves are known to want a left-hand-hitting outfielder."

THE STORY: Jim Dunn, private detective, who with his wife Nancy is posing as a caretaker while doing some work for his client, Mrs. Kit Carlson, has just discovered the body of Mrs. Angelica Jones, sister-in-law of his client, in the basement of the mountain lodge occupied by Mrs. Kit. The discovery is immediately complicated by the presence of the car of Miss Wister, Jim's secretary, outside the lodge. Jim thought Miss Wister was in Denver. Miss Wister is not around but when the sheriff arrives, she is riding with the sheriff. And the sheriff is a woman, Mrs. Toby Argyle.

XIV

Miss Wister told her story in a monotone which gave no emphasis to any particular part and no credence to the whole.

"Angelica talked to me on the phone yesterday at the office in Denver. She was calling long distance. She wanted to see me, said she had something of interest to tell. I couldn't get away before and I met her at Creek Junction last night. We drove part way here. I guess I got confused because I turned off the main road here. It was dark as pitch. I got out of the car and walked on ahead to see what was going to come along next, to see where the road went. Angelica turned my car around, drove off and left me. For a while I thought she would be coming back, so I just waited. I stumbled around in the dark awhile then and decided I'd better just stay put until daylight. I did. When it got light I started walking, and I'd managed to reach the main road when Mrs. Argyle came along in her truck. She brought me here."

Jim Dunn looked at Sheriff Agnes with both expectation and fear. Expectation of a blast which would jolt Miss Wister from her present state of mind, and fear that his secretary would probably be arrested immediately.

Instead, the sheriff asked mildly, "What time did you meet Angelica?"

"About three this morning," Miss Wister said. "I couldn't make it any sooner."

"What did she want to see you about?"

"She didn't get around to telling me."

Jim Dunn found that his mouth was open. He closed it, swallowed several times to moisten the lining of his throat. He realized that neither Miss Wister nor the sheriff was paying much attention to what she was saying. Both seemed to have their minds, the concentration of their thoughts, on something else. Both were going through the motions of a more or less proper attention to the requirements of such a situation. That was for his benefit.

He must have made some sort of noise with his swallowing because Sheriff Agnes turned toward him, gave him a hard official glare, and used an equally harsh tone in the question, "You know this woman well?"

"She works for me," Jim managed. He showed the sheriff his credentials. She did not give any evidence of surprise, or, for that matter, of any particular interest.

She said, "All right. And—the body?"

The very slight hesitation before the use of the last word gave Jim what he thought to be his clue. So that was the reason for the sheriff's preoccupation. She was putting off as long as possible an examination which must be made in accordance with her official position. Dreading it so much, she had missed the many careless holes in Miss Wister's story.

"In the basement," Jim said. "On the wood elevator." He handed over the key to the basement door.

The basement door had been closed behind the sheriff for a full three minutes before Jim broke the silence.

"Well, Miss Wister?"

She almost smiled, but then her face took on a stubborn expression. There was nothing he could do but let nature take its course, which in this case meant listening to whatever it was Miss Wister had decided to tell him.

"You may not know it," Miss Wister said, "but I'm a relation of the Carlsons. Call it cousin, which is close enough. I suppose you noticed I recognized Kit when she came into the office, and I'm sure she knew me, or of me thru Angelica. Anyway when you told me to look up anything I could on Mrs. Hilton, I had a head start. I've always kept track of the Carlson doings, just as a matter of habit."

"Just a minute," Jim interrupted. "Did she actually phone you?"

Miss Wister did not appreciate the interruption. "She phoned me. She—often did. I'd just as soon not have it known by anyone else, but sometimes I received mail for Angelica."

"Who from?" Jim demanded.

She set her lips in a mulish line. "I wouldn't care to make a guess. Anyway she'd call me up and ask, 'Anything?'. That was all, because we couldn't tell how much the local operators toady to Mrs. Oswald. But this time when she called she wanted help in getting something from The Spires. Poor thing! I've always liked Angelica. At least, I've liked her the best of any of the Carlsons. But still, she is a Carlson! At any rate I had to come up to make a report to you so I arranged to meet Angelica at Creek Junction."

"How about this report?" Jim asked.

"I'm going to wait awhile," Miss Wister said.

Strong Civil Defense is Best Defense Against Enemy Attacks

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — America has done much to get set for possible attack by A-bomb and H-bomb.

Much remains to be done in whatever amount of the time is left.

Civil Defense planners base everything they do on one grim assumption—that Russia can hit every potential target city in America with atomic weapons.

Even if no attack comes, preparation for it will have been worthwhile, officials say. Their theory:

Effective civil defense can make a potential target less worth hitting than one where no defenses would make the casualties and chaos greater.

Cities Make Studies

So a strong civil defense, like a powerful Strategic Air Command, is a deterrent to attack.

The best defense, assuming sufficient advance warning, is evacuation of targets, the planners said.

At least 40 U. S. cities already are making "urban vulnerability studies" to find out what evacuation plans and other measures will work best.

Stockpiles of emergency equipment and supplies are being increased, preparations are being made to care for survivors, 4,500,000 trained workers have been mobilized, and more than 100 emergency hospitals of 200 beds each are available for storing near target cities. The Federal Civil Federal Administration hopes to get approval of at least 537 more similar hospitals this year.

States and cities have put up nearly $15,000,000 in funds matched by the Federal Government for civil defense equipment.

Army Provides Training

FCDA and other agencies have supplied states and cities with detailed plans for carrying out their bomb-day responsibilities. They have given instructions on how to strengthen buildings against shock and flying debris, and on what kind of shelters, private or public, would stand up best in areas of less than total destruction.

The Army and FCDA have provided field kitchen training in the feeding of large numbers of persons quickly and with a minimum of supplies.

The Office of Industrial Mobilization has a defense program for manufacturing centers. It is encouraging dispersal of new plants outside recognized target areas, and strengthening of plants inside target regions, by offering fast tax writeoffs.

Defense Studies Pushed

Despite the assumption that Russia can hit now, and will be able to hit harder and harder as time passes, the U. S. civil defense program is in no sense a "crash (hurry up) project."

Mrs. Katherine G. Howard, deputy civil defense administrator, recently put the finger on some of the program's deficiencies:

Though 40 cities are pushing defense studies, "all cities should be making such plans."

Even if the 537 additional emergency hospitals are approved this year, "that is not enough."

Although millions are being spent for attack warning equipment, by this year's end only 53 percent of the people will be covered by such devices.

Although there are 4,500,000 civil defense workers, many more must be induced to train themselves "for the work that could save their lives and the lives of others."

Although states and cities have put up some $15,000,000 in matching civil defense funds, it is "obvious that our home governments are under-insured" in this "age of peril."

Air Attack Feared

So much for governmental deficiencies. What about you? Mrs. Howard says you need:

A shelter area in or near your home; a disaster first-aid kit and ability to use it; a three-day emergency supply of safe food and water; knowledge of how to fight fires; Red Cross instruction in first-aid and home nursing; a battery-operated radio for shelter use in case of power failure; knowledge of the emergency am radio channels over which you will get your instructions if disaster threatens; ability to recognize the air raid warning signals.
